Jill Colabroy, MD, General Pediatrics

For many parents, navigating how to keep your kids safe during the COVID-19 pandemic has been an ongoing source of stress. From safety precautions to vaccinations, there are many decisions to be made. Join us for a free informational session with experts from Lehigh Valley Reilly Children's Hospital.

During this 45-minute session, pediatric experts will discuss the COVID-19 vaccine for kids age 5-11 and tell you everything you need to know. Knowing the facts will help you feel informed when making decisions for your family. If you are looking for more information about the pediatric COVID-19 vaccine, then this session is for you. Pediatric experts will be available for questions after their presentation.
